SQUIRE CONNELLY DIES
AFTER TWO YEARS ILLNESS

Deceased Was For Many Years a Justice of the Peace and also Burgess

"Squire Daniel Connelly, one of Clearfield's oldest and most respected citizens died Sunday morning at 1045 at his home on Cherry street following a lingering illness of two years. Mr. Connelly has been confined to his home since December 1914 at which time he suffered a stroke of paralysis.

The deceased was born in Ireland on December 14, 1833 and up to 18 years of age lived in Manchester, England, coming to this country with his parents in 1851. After residing in Grampian a few years, Mr. Connelly moved to Clearfield where he engaged in the shoe making business, which occupation he followed up until 1881 when he was elected Justice of the Peace. He held the office of justice of the peace for twenty five years. Mr. Connelly was also a member of the town council for many years and served as Burgess.

In 1894 he was united in marriage to Miss Maria Daugherty who survives him. The deceased is also survived by the following children: James D., J. Frank and Miss Augusta Connelly of Clearfield, Mrs. M. J. McGinnion of Pottsville and Hugh L. of Butler.

Funeral services will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock from the St. Francis church of which he was a life-long member. Interment will be made in Calvary cemetery.

SECURE NEW QUARTERS NOW

Court Appoints Special Officer to Break up Lodging in Court House

The A. O. R. P., or, as it is better known in court house circles, the Ancient Order of Radiator Polishers, is to be no more. Also, the bootleg club, an institution which has earned for itself an unsavory reputation in prohibition circles is booked for oblivion, both through an order of the court issued Saturday appointing Ed. Taylor, one of the court house attaches, a special officer to break up the gang of loafers which has made headquarters in the corridors and halls of the seat of justice. Taylor is vested with authority to make arrests, and to exercise general police supervision over the court house premises.

Washington, March 6. (By United Press)—Newton D. Baker, aged 45, twice Mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, disciple of Tom Jones and effective supporter of President Wilson at the Baltimore convention, will be secretary of war in the President's cabinet. Admission of the fact was made at the white house today. Baker, who twice declined an invitation to become secretary of the interior when the President was forming his cabinet, has accepted the place made vacant by Lindley M. Garrison's resignation.

The appointment of Baker, the President, it is stated, meets a qualification which it has been intimated is considered important—that the new secretary be an attorney from the middle west. He has had a rough and tumble experience of politics being a long term pupil of Tom Johnson.

Washington, March 6. (By United Press)—Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, will be secretary of war according to information learned today any believed to be absolutely reliable. Announcement of the appointment, it is stated, may be expected from the White House in the next few days. The President, it is understood, has been advised by the attorney general's office that General Scott, chief of staff, cannot be retained as acting secretary of war longer than next Saturday when his thirty day appointment expires.

Baker is not entirely without cabinet experience. He served as private secretary to Postmaster General Wilson from 1896 to 1897. In addition to practicing law, he was city solicitor of Cleveland for ten years, serving from 1902 to 1912. His work as solicitor won him great public favor and he was elected to his first term as mayor of Cleveland in 1912. He was re-elected in 1914 and left office in 1916. He has always been a prominent Democrat and is a strong personal friend of President Wilson.

THREE VERDUN FORTS ARE
WRECKED BY GERMANS

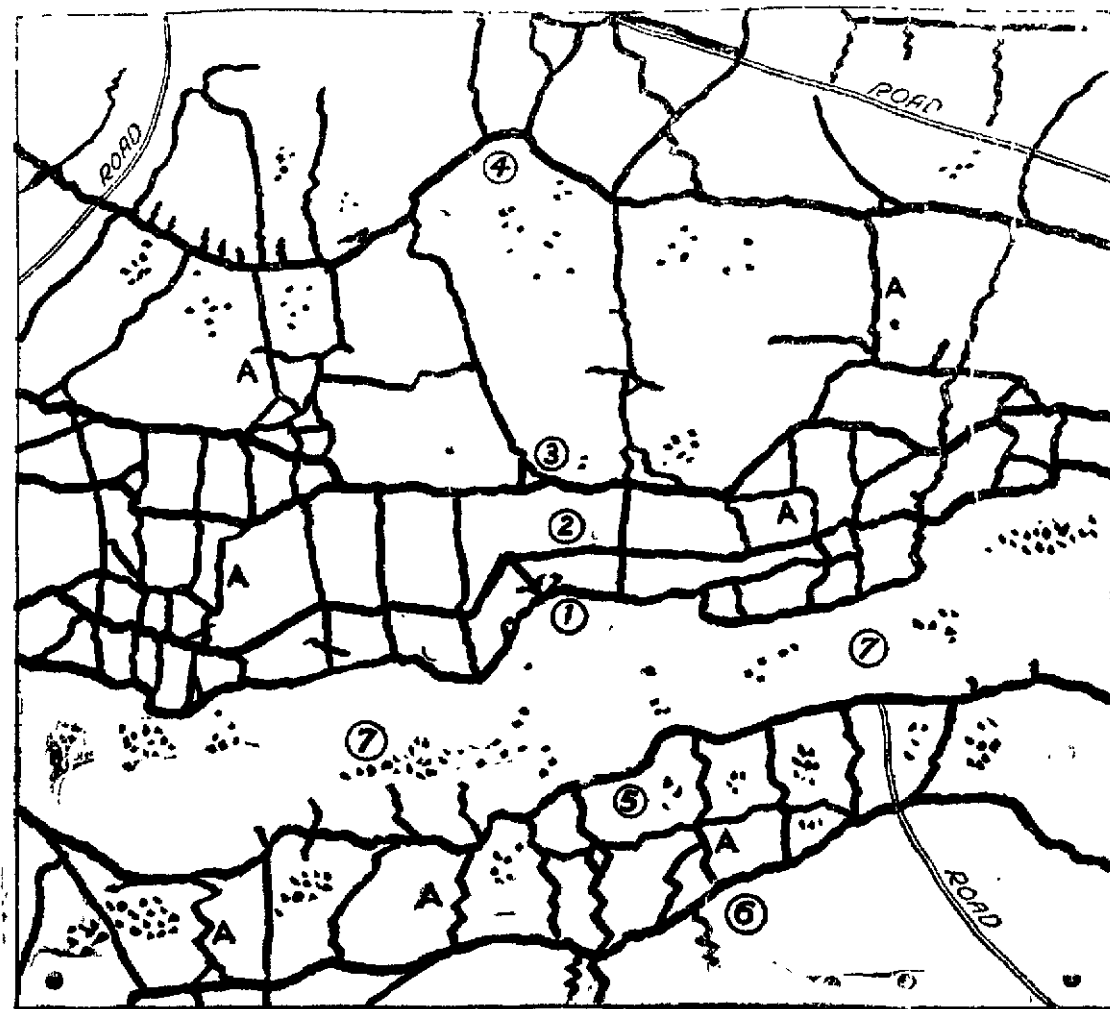

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Three of the Verdun forts defending the city from the east have been almost totally wrecked by the German bombardment, according to Amsterdam dispatches today. The Amsterdam dispatch repeated previous reports unconfirmed from Berlin, that fort Devaux, five miles northeast of Verdun, is in ruins. It added that forts Moulinville and Detavennes next in line south of Devaux have been badly damaged by German mortars if they have not been totally destroyed.

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Following the repulse of heavy attacks against the French front extending west from Douaumont, the Germans did not return to the attack last night, this afternoon's official statement from the French and German war offices indicated. Paris reported violent artillery fire on the left bank of the Meuse west of Douaumont and in the Woerthe region, but no important infantry action on the north Verdun front. The German war office mentioned only minor engagements around Verdun.

SENATE VOTE LESSENER

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
Berlin, March 6. (By United Press)—The senate vote of confidence in President Wilson last Friday has lessened the possibility of a German-American break, well informed Americans who have canvassed the situation thoroughly, reported today. Officials are somewhat puzzled as to the exact meaning of the senate vote, but the general opinion is that it strengthened the hands of those who though desiring a most vigorous submarine war do not want to take any chance of a break with America. The newspapers agree that the senate seemingly voted to keep hands off of German-American controversy excepting in a case likely to result in war.

Copy of a Photograph of Trenches in Champagne District

(1) German First Line Trenches. (5) French First Line Trenches. (7) Space Between First Line (A) German and French Approach Trenches.

This drawing was made from a remarkable photograph of the German and French trenches in the Champagne district taken by a French officer from an aeroplane. For the first time since the war began here is given an accurate picture of trenches. The small black dots scattered over the map show where shells by the thousands have burst. A striking fact shown by the photograph is that the trenches are built with many curves and angles to prevent the enemy shooting down them in case of capture.

The German trenches are those at the top of the map. They show four lines with many connecting trenches. Only two lines of the French trenches are shown because the aviator was more intent on getting a photograph of the enemy's trenches for use by the French. The photograph was so indistinct that the only way it could be reproduced was by tracing, as is done here.

ZEPPELIN RAID ON ENGLAND KILLS 12 AND INJURES MANY

Zeppelin Drop Bombs on Eight
Counties Near London Destroying Much Property

Reports States That Three Zeppelins
Participated in Raid—Four Women
and Five Children Victims of Dirig-
ibles.

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Twelve persons were killed and thirty-three injured in Sunday night's Zeppelin raid over northeast coast of England, it was officially announced today. Two raiding airships dropped bombs on Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, Rutland, Cambridge, Norfolk, Essex and Kent. The dirigibles dropped 40 bombs destroying houses on two terraces and damaging several shops, it was stated. The dead are three men, four women and five children.

It is now believed that three Zeppelins participated in the raid. An earlier statement from the admiralty reported only two Zeppelins engaged. In extent of territory visited last night in the Zeppelin raid on England this was perhaps the greatest of the war according to the London official statement. Eight counties extending along the North Sea coast and east and north east of London were visited. The statement that both Essex and Kent counties adjoining the city of London were raised indicates that the Zeppelins may come very close to London itself.

Berlin, March 6.—Official announcement was made by the naval general staff today that the German commerce raider Moewe has returned to a German port. She had on board 199 prisoners and 1,000,000 marks in gold bars. The statement follows: The naval general staff states that Lt. M. S. Moewe, commander, Capt. INDIANA TO HOLD FIRST PREFERENCE PRIMARY TUESDAY

Voters Will Record Preference
For Nominees To Many
Important Offices

Indiana is First State to Present
Campaign to Hold Preference Primary For Presidency—Campaign
Exceedingly Complicated and Involved.

Indianapolis, March 6.—After one of the most spirited campaigns in the political history of Indiana, the state-wide primary election will be held tomorrow. At that time the voters will record their preference for nominees for the presidency, for the vice presidency, for the United States senatorship, and for the governorship and other state offices to be filled at the election next November.

Indiana will be the first state in the present campaign to have a preferential presidential vote, but this feature is made almost devoid of interest by the fact that only one candidate has filed for the presidency on each of the party tickets. The Republicans are for Charles W. Fairbanks for President and there is no Democratic opposition to the renomination of President Wilson. Vice President Thomas R. Marshall also will receive the Democratic endorsement for renomination.

On the other hand, the campaign for nominations for governor and other state officers is exceedingly complicated and involved. This applies also to the contest for the republican nomination for United States senator. No opposition exists among the Democrats to the renomination of Senator John W. Kern. On the Republican side there is a bitter contest for the senatorial nomination between former Congressman James E. Watson and Capt. Harry S. New, one-time chairman of the Republican national committee. Judge James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, will receive the Progressive nomination for senator without opposition.

John A. M. Adair, for many years the congressman from the Eighth district, is expected to be nominated by the Democrats for governor. His opponent is Leonard P. Clark, of LaPorte. For the head of the Republican state ticket the rival aspirants are James F. Goodrich, of Vincennes

CLEARFIELD WINS FROM LOCK HAVEN AND JERSEY SHORE

G.H.S. Returns From Down River
Trip with Two More Victories To Its Credit

Defeated Jersey Shore Friday Evening by Score of 45-29 and Lock
Haven Normal Saturday Evening
By Score of 36-17.

The Clearfield high school basketball team returned yesterday from a two days trip down the river, on which two more victories were added to its credit. Friday evening the Clearfield team defeated Jersey Shore high by a score of 45-29. This was the first time since basketball was started in Jersey Shore that the high school team has been defeated on their home floor. Saturday evening The Red and Black five defeated Lock Haven Normal in an exciting game, score 36-17.

Both games played on this trip were hard ones and increase the reputation of the Clearfield team. The Jersey Shore game was especially interesting and marked by fast teamwork and excellent passing and shooting. The first half ended with the score 20-19 in Clearfield's favor but during the second half Clearfield displayed a new flash of speed and walked away with their opponent, scoring twenty-five points to Jersey Shore's ten. Lynn was the star of the game and largest individual point gainer, caging nine baskets.

The Lock Haven Normal game played Saturday evening was reported to be the fastest played on the floor this season. In spite of the large floor, Clearfield out classed Normal in every department of the game. The first half ended with the score 24-6 in Clearfield's favor but during the second half Clearfield lacked speed on account of being tired from Friday night's game, and scored only one more point than their opponents in this half. Lynn again starred and scored twenty two points.

Clearfield high has established a record so far this season which has never been equaled by a Clearfield team. The schedule which has been played is the hardest ever made out for a Clearfield high school team and included two Normal teams, one college team and some of the fastest high school teams of the state. Indiana Normal is the only team that has defeated Clearfield this season and only one game has ended in a tie, that being the DuBois game played at DuBois.

DELEGATES TABLE CENTRALIZATION BY BIG MAJORITY

Two Days Debate Ends Saturday Morning—Resolution Co-tested By Vote of 102-22

Only Small Percentage of Delegates
Has Been Acted Upon—Several
Committees Will Make Report This
Week—First Week Ended Saturday
Night.

After two days of almost continuous debate for and against the centralization plan of government in District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers of America, the delegates, just before adjournment at Saturday noon, voted to table the entire question, the margin of victory for the proponents of centralization being heavy, 102 to 22. The officers claim that this vote settles the matter for all time so far as the present convention is concerned. This question has clogged proceedings and it is believed that with this matter out of the way that fast progress will be made on the other business before the delegates.

During the debate on the sub-district question, there were flashes of oratory, fine argumentation, inventive bright repartee and direct charges of wrong-doing but when the session adjourned it was believed that a majority of the delegates were more than satisfied that the matter had finally come to a vote and was out of the way. Many of the speakers Saturday morning spoke of the fact that too much time was being used and valuable money spent. In this regard it is safe to say that the time consumed in debating the centralization system and its effect on the delegates had cost the organization in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Saturday Morning
Delegates began the debate at Saturday morning by discussing the officers always get the last opportunity to speak on a subject, as someone generally made a motion that debate cease just as soon as any of the officials had spoken finally. He denounced the charge that members of the organization were after office. He claimed that under the sub-district system better conditions existed than prevailed at present.

Delegate King, of Barnhart, spoke in favor of sub-district government. Delegate Egan, of DuBois, at this point injected somewhat of a sensation into the convention. He stated that while some of the officials had intimated that men who advocated sub-districts wanted jobs, nothing was said about some of the present officials who went so far as to Spanish marked ballots at elections. As the ballots are in the keeping of Secretary Gilbert, this official demanded to know if he was the one meant. Delegate Egan replied no. When asked to name the official he named Board Member Frank White. This brought forth a statement from Mr. White, in which he explained that the supposed marked ballot had been in the possession of Fred Thomas, district organizer, and was voted at an election in Ramsaytown, but that Mr. Thomas' action had been investigated and he was exonerated. There was a storm brewing, but the chair ruled out debate of an extraneous nature, and the regular matter under discussion was taken up. But Mr. White managed to get in the statement that any man who accused him of giving out marked ballots was telling a falsehood. Delegate Egan declared the truth was not in Mr. White, and here the matter rested.

After Delegate Green had made a short speech in which he advocated a referendum of the men and not of the locals, President James Percell took up the discussion and announced a large number of arguments that had been brought up by the delegates in the course of their remarks in regard to sub-districts. It was shortly after his remarks that a motion was made to table the entire matter of sub-districts. The motion was put by Vice President O'Neil and carried by a vote of 102 to 22. The convention then adjourned until this morning.

To most men team work means hitching a willing horse in single harness.

The Gore and McLemore resolutions might just as well "lie" on the table as anywhere else.

Why all this pot and pother about who invented trench warfare when the lowly chigger has been "digging in" since Eve ate the apple?

Now that the court house loafers are driven to secure new quarters, a ferry to put one through the flood of amber juice which inundates the edifice in warm summer weather will no longer be necessary.

The feat of the Moewe must be a bitter pill to the British Grand Fleet, which has been scouring the Seven Seas for the daring German raider. Safe at Wilhelmshaven, she adds another to the many thrilling episodes of the war.

The high school basket ball shooters came through with two more victories last week, both of them signal ones because they were won away from home and from teams which ordinarily are considered out of our class. Make the sheet a clean one, boys, and more power to you!

ASSIMILATING RAW MATERIAL.

The Y. M. C. A. membership campaign has closed. Three hundred and sixty-five men and young men signed applications which will make them members of the association for one year. Most of this material is raw, in the sense that the men are unfamiliar with the purposes and aims of the institution with which they have affiliated themselves. Much of it is raw, in still another sense of never having come in intimate contact with the kind of fellowship that it will find in Y. M. C. A. circles. Many of these new men are going to be of the diamond in the rough variety, for they were recruited from walks of life into which few associations venture in search of material, and they are apt sometimes to jar and to seem sometimes to fail to fit into the scheme because of faulty understanding of it.

We believe it to be the duty of every older member of the association to put forth a special effort to make the assimilation of these men into the organization easier. Unless they have brought into and made a part of the association, unless some special effort is made to compensate them for their willingness to take the association "on trial," as it were, taking them in will prove a mistake which will cost the association dearly in prestige among the very classes of men which it strives hardest to interest in its work.

WILL PATIENCE SURVIVE IT?

"For the first time in the history of the United States a war-like president has been elected by congress. Would to God that the parliaments of England, France and Russia had done likewise. If they had protested before irreparable steps were taken as our congress has done Europe would not be at war today."—From "The Fatherland," in editorial comment on the situation of the past two weeks at the national capital.

How much longer must this particularly brand of Germanized treason be inflicted upon American intelligence? Wilson warlike? Then, in God's name, what superlative fittingly designates the kaiser, why not only precipitated this world tragedy, but who bent every atom of the devilish ingenuity of his people to preparation for it, even to poison gas, and Zeppelin raids which have taken toll only in the life of innocent women and children?

Each week, unbidden, and unwelcome, save that we feel it a duty to keep abreast with Vierick's absurdly offensive propaganda, "The Fatherland" finds its way into The Progress office. We presume it finds its way also into every other newspaper office in the United States. We can conceive of no method of reasoning other than the unreasoning German fundamental of affirmation, which might lead its sponsors to believe that "The Fatherland" can be other than an offense to the man who are expected to read it. Its campaign of treason is more violent and less intelligent than the wildest flights of a thousand Emma Goldmanns, and we believe that it would have been cut short long ago had not this government sought to avoid any act which might further inflame the war-crazed brain of the German bureaucracy.

Margaret Wilson a Suffrage Hostess
Miss Margaret Wilson always was a suffragist at heart, but it was not until last year, after her father had announced his own views on the question of votes for women, that she permitted herself to come out and work for the enfranchisement of her sex.

On Wednesday, February 9, Miss Wilson was one of the hostesses at a Suffrage Tea given in New York City, where Miss Julia Lathrop, head of the National Children's Bureau, spoke about the relation of suffrage to child welfare. The Children's Bureau is another one of the human-interests of Miss Margaret Wilson, whose unaffected love of humanity has led her to ally herself with many philanthropic movements. Miss Wilson, who seldom makes speeches, since she needs to save her voice for her art, has usually been a silent, but conspicuous, on-looker at the various meetings of the movements in which she is deeply interested.

It is said that she always gives the proceeds of her concert money to the work of the blind, for while she is an enthusiastic lover of her work, she does not sing to enrich herself, but to help mankind.

ENGLISH WAITING FOR GERMAN NAVY TO LEAVE COVER

Large Fleet Patiently Waiting For Teutons to Leave Kiel Or Heligoland Today

Sailors Make Shells and Other Articles For Use in the Army—Movies Presented on Board of Every Ship. No Lack of Morale Due to Inactivity.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the British Battle Cruiser Squadron, Somewhere in the North Sea, Feb. 18. (By Mail)—Standing placidly at anchor, but in formidable battle array, the British navy's "fighting veterans" of the battles of Heligoland Light and Doggerbank were still waiting for the Germans to come out today.

Great, long grey warships, their engines ready to turn the propellers; like greyhoundish scout cruisers and swarms of diminutive black destroyers and torpedo boats, all fully manned and ready for action, appeared anxious and willing today to be off in chase or battle.

By courtesy of the British Admiralty I was able to see to close range the real reason why there has been no warfare in the North sea since January 24, 1915, when the German Blücher was sunk and the Derfflinger, Moltke and Seydlitz were forced to run to cover in the German minefields. Since that time the German fleet has remained at home.

Preparedness personified in ships and men, the British squadron is ready to remain thus for years if necessary, according to the officers and men with whom I talked.

Well ahead in the battle line is the Tiger, 700 feet of the same fighting cat that showed her teeth to the Blücher in the Doggerbank action. A dented armor plate just above the waterline mark of a fatal shot from the Blücher, is a lasting memento still carried by the Tiger. The shell was from one of the Teuton's 11 inch guns, the Tiger's officers declare. It failed to penetrate the nine inch belt of Krupp armor while the Tiger's 13 1/2 inch guns were performing the equalled "krupp-armor-buster" German battle cruiser.

Berlin still believes the Tiger was sunk in this action. A possible forecast of future German naval warfare in the North sea and an explanation of why the German belief is firm that the Tiger went down was given by one of the Tiger's officers. When the Blücher turned her massive hull to view, a Zeppelin appeared 10,000 feet above and dropped bombs in the vicinity of the boats of the British fleet busy picking up the Blücher's survivors.

Observers on the air ship saw the Blücher's death struggle and assumed that it was the Tiger. The word was carried back to Berlin and officially announced to the world before Germany saw fit to announce that the Blücher was sunk. It was the same old Tiger, however, which the writer inspected from stem to stern today, and seeing is believing.

Not far astern the Tiger stood the other member of the Battle Squadron's cat family. It was the Lion, bristling with guns, big and small, primed and ready for any emergency. Nearby lay the New Zealand, a gift to the navy from New Zealanders in 1910 and which made a record trip around the World just before the war. The Princess Royal, 700 trim feet of fighting ship, also was nearby keeping silent company with the other fleet units, the identities of which must remain Admiralty secrets.

The Battle Cruiser Squadron is waiting for something out of the air which will set dozens of engines racing toward the open sea and cause hundreds of officers, gunners and stokers and thousands of seamen to jump to their battle stations. Less than ten minutes after the "prepare for action" comes from the flagship the leading scout cruisers will be tearing out to sea. Close behind, a few moments later, will come the speedy battle cruisers primed for the long awaited but ever welcome action.

Every four days some of these lighter craft, scout cruisers and torpedo boats, arise seaward to take their patrol stations where the wireless ears can be nearer the German coast. It is these craft that will give the signal. Their diversions at the moment is hunting the elusive submarine, many of which, it was learned today, have cruised their lives in quest of the Battle Cruiser Squadron's haven. Many notes, far farther inland, act as the Sigsbee's secret line of defense against the submarine. Whether these nets have been effective for catching purposes is a question that goes courteously

GARRY HERRMAN TO TAKE PART IN BASEBALL CONFAB

Constitutional Convention of Amateur Federation Will be Held

Johnstown, Pa., March 5. (By United Press)—A constitutional convention of the newly organized Amateur National Baseball Federation of the United States will be held in Cincinnati March 10th and 11th at which time uniform rules will be adopted for all the cities affiliated with the federation, which now include Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Johnston and Louisville.

Garry Herrmann, President of the National commission governing professional baseball, is manifesting keen interest in the amateur organization and will be chairman of the forthcoming gathering of amateur sportsmen in Cincinnati.

The federation has begun a survey of the amateur baseball situation throughout the country with a view to eluding the various amateur organizations into a compact body. The survey is being directed from the office of Tom Nokes, National Secretary, here and the co-operation of sporting editors in every city of consequence has been invited.

The cost of the survey is to be borne by voluntary contributions. It is expected that wealthy sportsmen who favor the amateur game will contribute liberally to the expenses of the organization and a big fund probably will be realized.

MRS. PANKHURST'S "WAR BABIES."

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes of England, showed this photograph of the four war babies she has taken to raise when she was at the McAlbin Hotel in New York the other day. They are the Misses Joan, Elizabeth and Mary, one six months and Kathleen one year old.

"The fathers of two were officers killed at the Barchinella," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "I am raising them as an experiment, and am deeply attached to them. Each has its story, and they were selected as the best examples of their class. They will be given the same bringing up that my own children receive, and when the time comes for the nation to tackle the problem of the illiterate I have already started the action that will prove a helpful precedent."

SYRIAN GIRL STARTS FUND TO BUILD U. S. SUBMARINE

Newark, O., March 5. (By United Press)—Miss Amessa Samadi, 19, a Syrian girl here has sworn her allegiance to the cause of the defense of the United States and she has started a popular subscription fund among the Retail Clerks Association of the United States, asking each member to contribute 25 cents, the total to be given to the Adjutant General of Ohio to use for building a submarine for the United States government.

The project has the approval of state officials and Miss Samadi was given a check for a substantial contribution by the association. The banks have volunteered to be sponsors for the fund. Already more than $200 has been subscribed here. Circular letters have been sent to the secretary of every retail clerks' association in the country asking for their support and favorable replies have been received from many of them.

Miss Samadi was born in the foothills of Mt. Olive near the cities of Beirut and Damascus, both famous in biblical history, and she seeks to show the people of the United States how deeply at heart the Syrian people have the welfare of the United States.

FIRST BABY WEEK OF ILLINOIS TO START TOMORROW

Over Two Thousand Communities of Four Counties Will Observe Baby Week

Wisconsin Proposes State Wide Campaign—Many Interesting and Instructive Programs Have Been Prepared in Many Cities and Towns

Washington, March 4. (By United Press)—Babies of four colors and two nationalities were the center of attraction in 2,029 communities in the United States, Alaska, the Philippines, Canada and the British West Indies today. They will hold the spotlight for the succeeding six days of National Baby week, inaugurated by the General Federation of Women's clubs and sponsored by the Federal Children's bureau.

The babies don't know it, but they are the reason for hundreds of nursing courses, child welfare exhibits, window decorating contests, bazaars, essay contests and general meetings planned during the week in the United States and its possessions, not to mention again Canada and the British West Indies.

Wisconsin proposed a state-wide campaign to place emphasis on adequate nursing, care and instruction for prospective mothers. Texas has its own baby week slogan; "Baby health is Texas wealth." Mississippi has a slogan of its own. North Dakota is holding an essay contest in public schools. A Colorado settlement 40 miles from a railroad, a woman's club on a western reclamation project, a Montana coal mining town with a large foreign population, a southern mill village and several farm women's clubs are holding celebrations.

Child welfare exhibits were prepared by women's clubs in Omaha and Lincoln. These will be sent throughout Nebraska. A Maryland town will have a birth registration day; a merchant has promised a tooth brush to every mother who goes to the city hall to find whether her baby's birth is registered. Another city inaugurated a competition for the cleverest widow plan.

Manila will have its meetings during the week; the babies on two Indian reservations will be brought from their wigwams, if their parents still affect wigwams, to share in the enlightenment, and to blink boredly during tribal conferences concerning them.

Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Richmond, San Francisco, Washington and other large cities have programs. New York will have a baby week of its own late this spring. Many rural communities have announced their intention to participate.

Plans differ, in some respects, in all of the 2,000 cities. But if all the celebrations are the successes the Children's bureau believes they will be, International Baby week will rise several points before the market closes next Saturday.

Springfield, Ill., March 4. —Half a million mothers "little darlings," including white babies, black babies and chocolate colored ones were fed, cuddled and groomed today for the opening of Illinois' first Baby week.

From Mauckogon on the north to Cairo on the south the infants prepared to open the week with a grand bawl.

"We are going to crown the babies kings and queens in Illinois next week," Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, secretary of the state board of health, which arranged the event, announced today.

"Every city of any importance in the state has determined to participate, with baby shows, mother's meetings, public lectures at which the best way to care for infants will be told, and even the churches will help by devoting sermons tomorrow to babies."

Illinois realizes, said Drake, that some cuddling, dimpled fist bobbing to an infant from the corn belt may hold the nation's destiny some day, and that some girl baby with dimples in her chubby little knees may grow up to be the first woman president.

"We want to make them all fit for these honors," Drake said. "The fate of all nations rests with their babies. Good babies for Illinois—that's our slogan."

In addition to the contests, which will terminate next Sunday in "review day," most of the cities will observe the following schedule:

Sunday—Baby Sunday in the churches.
Monday—Little Mothers day, in which children will be taught the proper care of infants.
Tuesday—Fathers and Sons day, in which

WHALE-CUB TEAM LEAVES FOR SOUTHERN TRAINING

Very Few Rookies in Bunch Which Leaves Today for Tampa

Chicago, March 5. (By United Press)—Charlie Weeghman's amalgamated Whale-Cub team is on its way today for the seaport training trip. Thirty-two players were taken along. A train de luxe, including six parlor coaches, equipped with everything from a billiard table to a Victrola, carries the party, which includes players, club officials, newspapermen and 33rd degree fans, to the training camp at Tampa, Fla.

The team is the strongest aggregation of ball players gotten together since the days of Frank Chance's World Champion Cubs, in the opinion of fans. Manager Joe Tinker, who led the Federal Whales to the league championship last year, has a handpicked bunch of players. Every one has a rep. The squad is noticeably free of rookies.

His pitching staff includes Three Fingers Brown, Hendrix, Seaton, Prendergast, McConnell, Lavender, Zabel and Wright, all right handers. In the way of southpaws he has Vaughn, Pierce and Bailey. Brown is the man on which Tinker relies to keep the hurlers in shape and occasionally to save a losing game.

The catching staff is one of the best in the country. Jimmy Archer is considered to be without a peer. The addition of Clemons, Wilson and Fischer will help a great deal. The infield will be composed of Saier on first, Yerkes at second, Doolin on short and Zimmerman at third. Then Tinker has in himself a crackjack of a utility man. The outfield will be composed of five stars: Schulte, Mann, Flack, Williams and Zwilling.

In addition to those mentioned the following players will be taken on the trip: Allison, Baily, Fritz, Mulligan, McConnell, McCarthy, Pierce and Pecheus. Exhibition games have been scheduled as follows: New Orleans at New Orleans April 3. Shreveport April 5-6-7; Memphis at Memphis April 8; Louisville at Louisville April 9-10-11.

The second team stages its first game at Shreveport April 1; April 2 and 4 are open and on the 5th it plays Pine Bluff, Ark. at Pine Bluff. On the 6th and 7th Little Rock, Ark. at Little Rock; Both teams meet at Memphis on the 8th to come north.

HI GILL FACES CRISIS IN POLITICAL CAREER

Mayor Candidate for Re-Election on Corn-Cob Pipe Platform

Seattle, Wash., March 5. (By United Press)—Hi Gill, mayor of Seattle, faces another crisis in his up and down political career at the city elections tomorrow. Gill's former chief of police, E. Griffiths, in his principal opponent in this election.

Even Gill's friends wonder what this election will bring forth. His record shows why: 1910, elected mayor of Seattle, on an open town platform; 1911, re-elected because of police graft; 1912, defeated for re-election on his promise to "reform"; 1914, elected by the largest majority ever given a mayoralty candidate. Picked for radical reform; 1916, candidate for re-election on his so-called "corn-cob pipe platform."

PROPOSE VATICAN BAN OF WRITINGS OF G. D'ANNUNZIO

Decree Expected To Arouse Stormiest Affair of Modern Italian Life In Years

D'Annunzio Won For Himself a Place in Hearts of Italians Along With Garibaldi, Victor Emmanuel and King's Two Immediate Predecessors

BY HENRY WOOD (United Press Staff Correspondent) Rome, Feb. 20. (By Mail)—According to well informed Vatican circles the congregation of the Index has just prepared a ban of interdiction against all the recent works of Gabriele D'Annunzio, one of Italy's greatest modern poets, novelists, dramatists, and, it might even be said, probably her greatest modern patriot. The publication of the decree is expected to arouse one of the stormiest affairs of modern Italian life since the separation of the Vatican and the Quirinal.

Although D'Annunzio's literary fame has long been established it is only since Italy began her military career four years ago with the campaign in Tripoli, that D'Annunzio has won for himself a place in the hearts of all Italians along with Garibaldi, Victor Emmanuel and King Victor's two immediate predecessors.

D'Annunzio's poetry during the Tripoli war, singing the glory of Italian arms, aroused all Italy to a veritable frenzy of appreciation and admiration. Even this was outdone when early in the present war D'Annunzio made himself the champion of Italy's entrance and both by pen and voice worked day and night with all the genius at his command until Italy finally got in. His reward was the decoration from King Victor Emmanuel of the order of the Annunziata, which makes him a cousin of the King, and the enshrining of himself in the hearts of the Italian people as its most popular idol.

Under the circumstances the Congregation of the Index is declared seriously to have considered the advisability of a ban at the present moment against D'Annunzio's latest works, nearly all of which consist of poems inspired by Italy's military glory. It was recognized that such an action at this time undoubtedly would call down on the Vatican the anger of all Italy. More than a few Italians would be inclined to regard the ban as another Vatican blow at the Quirinal.

On the other hand, the venerable cardinals composing the Congregation of the Index, finally decided that their duty was purely a religious one and that therefore they had no right to let any other consideration interfere with its discharge. The questioned works of D'Annunzio are said to have been condemned on almost every score on which it is possible for the Congregation of the Index to condemn modern writings.

It is understood the ban will announce that the writings possess religious and philosophical errors that there is in them a grand mixture of sacred and profane ideas; that there is repeated abuse both of biblical words and biblical images, and that above all they are profoundly irrelevant to such a degree as greatly to disturb the mind of any Catholic reader.

It is not expected that D'Annunzio will take the ban of condemnation with a great degree of seriousness. He has never at any time showed himself as being very susceptible to charges of any kind that might be brought against him.

One of the last decrees of the Congregation of the Index was against all the works of Maeterlinck, the great modern Belgian poet and playwright.

WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

McMinnville, Ore., March 6.—Mrs. Agnes Booth, aged 33, was arraigned in the state circuit court today for trial on an indictment charging her with the murder of her husband, William Booth, last October. The killing of Booth, a well-to-do resident of Williamina, is alleged by the state to have been the result of Mrs. Booth's infatuation for William Branson, who is ten years her junior. Mrs. Booth and Branson were indicted and tried jointly for the murder last November, when the jury failed to agree on a verdict. Subsequently Branson was given a separate trial and was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Easy Divorce in the Wrong State.

The Philadelphia Press has just called attention to its "easy divorce law" passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1913 as one that would attract people seeking divorce to Pennsylvania rather than to Nevada if its peculiar merits were generally known. The validity of the law is now being contested in the courts. But it does not alter the fact that the law was passed. If this had happened in a suffrage state, it would have been laid up to the votes of women, even if the women had not voted for members of the Legislature.

The smaller Frenchmen were startled when they beheld the savage looking mountain man armed to the teeth. Now he is an accepted character in Lyons and the Frenchmen have taken to him.

BRAVES ON TRIAL TO MIAMI FOR SPRING TRAINING CAMP

Aided by Rare Talent From Defunct Feds, Braves Expect to Win '16 Pennant

Boston, March 4. (By United Press)—The Braves are on the trail to the spring training camp at Miami, Fla., today. They are expected to arrive there for their initial 1916 powwow with the ball and bat March 7th.

Aided and abetted by the addition of some rare talent from the defunct Feds and under the tutelage of a new boss, the Boston Nationals look better to local fans than ever as they whirl away for the dirt diamonds and sandy sliding pits of the sunny south.

Percy Haughton, famous Harvard coach and new President of the Braves, did not plan to be present when the team gets going at training quarters.

The Braves will have their usual long work-outs, and fortified with Ed. Konechky and a couple of other Federal league stars, are expected to attract every bit as much attention as they did a year ago when they packed the big title around.

Local fans believe the Stallings stars would have cashed in once more last season but for an unprecedented flock of trouble in the form of suspensions, injuries and so on. Said fans also know that the former champions constitute a good fighting team, and that this year, with every man in line, with the exception of Schmidt, whose shoes should be more than filled by "Big Ed" they are likely to come back to the farm that made them somewhat spectacular in 1914.

The schedule of the Braves is much more extensive, expansive and comprehensive than ever before.

When they finally all get together the Braves will have the following collection of talent, which looks pretty good to the Hub fans: Manager George Stallings and Business Manager Walter Haggood; Tyler, Lowe, Lee, Ricco, "Rabbit" Maranville, Evers, J. and M. Shannon, Magee, R. Rudolph, Fitzpatrick, Knetzer, Eddie Collins, Wilhoit, James Barnes, Compton, Strand, Konechky, Blackburne, Neph Egan, Gregg, Traggerson, Allen, Smith, Gowdy, Ragan, Hughes, Chauncey, Connolly and Snodgrass.

Stallings is known to be on the war-path for a catcher. With Konechky holding down first the old Rabbit-Evers combination around the key-stone sack, the "Red" Smith on the hot corner, they will not have to take anybody's dust when it comes to infielders.

Out near the fence, there will be a hot fight for the three steady jobs: Magee, Snodgrass, Connolly, Egan, Eddie Collins, Fitzpatrick, Compton, Shannon and Wilhoit will all be in the struggle; and there is just about enough material in the bunch to make three first-class outfielders for any team in the league.

Behind the bat there will be "Hammering Hank" Gowdy, Traggerson, and a couple of youngsters, while in the box, well—with Bill James in 1914 form, and Knetzer and Allen added to the already tip-top staff of twirlers the Boston fans are sitting back and chuckling.

For the first time in the history of Alabama a woman lawyer participated in a murder case when Margaret Hamilton Ervin, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., defended Leland Cass before the court of Anniston. Miss Ervin also has the honor of being the first woman lawyer ever admitted to the Chattanooga Bar Association, and is the first woman who ever argued a case before the Supreme Court of Tennessee. The Anniston Star says: "Miss Ervin offered many valuable suggestions to the associate counsel and her appearance in the case was plainly a strong factor in favor of the defendant."

Another step in woman's progress was taken last week, when the first woman justices in the British empire were nominated in South Australia. They include Mrs. Price, widow of the first Labor Premier in the State.

Miss Reineke Schridge, of Butte, who received the degree of bachelor of arts and bachelor of law from the University of Montana last week, has the distinction of being the first girl to receive an LL. B. from that university.

Elected in Joke; Serves in Earnest.

In Alliance, Ohio, Miss John Gruber was elected by a joking male electorate as constable. Miss Gruber, who was an enthusiastic suffrage worker, has said that "if a majority of the people want a woman to hold a certain office they should be allowed to elect her." Men of the town ship wrote her name on their ballots for "tom" and now she is constable of Smith township.

A New York City paper has recently remarked that she may prove as valuable an officer as though she had acquired her position by the help of a ward "boss."

ORPET EXPECTS TO BE INDICTED FOR LAMBERT MURDER

State's Attorney Will Reveal Long Chain of Circumstantial Evidence Before Jury

Orpet and Attorney Expect to Prove That Marion Lambert Committed Suicide—Many Facts in the Tragedy Are Admitted by the Defense.

Waukegan, Ill., March 5. (By United Press)—The Lake County grand jury met today to hear evidence concerning the tragedy of pretty Marian Lambert, an 18-year-old Lake Forest High School girl for whose mysterious death William H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin junior is in jail charged with murder. State's Attorney Ralph J. Day planned to reveal a chain of circumstantial evidence before the jury, with a request for speedy indictment. Orpet and his counsel admitted the probability of Orpet's indictment, but added that they were reserving their strength for the trial. Orpet and his attorneys predicted it will be established that Marian committed suicide. Facts in the tragedy admitted by the defense and the state, are:

Young Orpet and Marian, friends for years, had trodden the primrose path in their love idyl, a romance of the forests on the great Cyrus H. McCormick estate near Lake Forest. Marian had written Orpet that she feared the consequence of their intrigue. On the morning of February 9, Marian left her home on the Kuppenheimer estate where her father is chief engineer. On the evening of February 8 young Orpet left Madison Wis., the university town, after arranging an alibi to conceal his departure. On the morning of February 9, Marian and Orpet met in the woods near the "three trees," a favorite trysting spot for Lake Forest youths and maidens. On the afternoon of February 10, Marion's father, Frank Lambert and a friend, William Marshall, found Marion's body in the woods. It lay in the snow, apparently undisturbed, as if Marian were asleep. One hand was unclenched. The other held her school books. On the evening of February 11, Orpet was arrested at Madison. The next day he was formally charged with murder. An autopsy disclosed that cyanide of potassium, taken either in liquid or powder form, caused Marian's death. Crystals of this same poison were found beneath Marian's fingernails. Cyanide of potassium was used in gardening by Marian's father and by Orpet's father, William O. Orpet, who is gardener on the McCormick estate, in fighting garden insect pests. The poison also was easy of access to Marian at her high school laboratory and to Orpet at the University of Wisconsin laboratory. Young Orpet hoped to marry Miss Celestia Youker, an instructor at the state normal college at DeKalb, Ill. Miss Lambert was not in the condition she feared. Orpet's story is that Marian killed herself when he left her in the woods, after telling her he was "through," and planned to marry Miss Youker. He said he left Marian crying, that she called to him and he returned and found her dying. Day's theory is that Orpet gave Marian poison instead of the abortive medicine her letters showed she had received from him before, and that he gave it to her with wilful intent to clear his path of a "light of love." The question for the grand jury to decide is the same that faced a coroner's jury: "Murder or suicide? Which?" The coroner's jury, though holding Orpet because of circumstantial evidence, made no attempt to answer the question in its verdict rendered February 21.

TEXANS WILL OBSERVE MASSACRE OF THE ALAMO

San Antonio, March 6.—Patriotic and historical societies of San Antonio today joined in their customary observance of the eightieth anniversary of the massacre of the Alamo. The massacre was one of the stirring events in the Texas struggle for independence. The Alamo, originally a Spanish mission located near San Antonio, had been converted into a fort by the Texas patriots. Here occurred the historic massacre on March 6, 1836, when a Mexican force of 1,600 or 2,000 men, under Santa Ana, after having besieged and bombarded its garrison of 140 Texans from February 23, stormed the place and took it, after being twice repulsed. Col. David Crockett was killed in the engagement. But six Texans were left alive after the assault, and these were murdered in cold blood in Santa Ana's presence, by his order, after they had surrendered on a promise of protection.

The President, the members of the cabinet, the governors of states and many other men prominent in public life are among those to whom invitations have been sent. BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you dyed your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet preparation for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By BREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

Deceased Was For Many Years a Justice of the Peace and also Burgess

"Squire Daniel Connelly, one of Clearfield's oldest and most respected citizens died Sunday morning at 1045 at his home on Cherry street following a lingering illness of two years. Mr. Connelly has been confined to his home since December 1914 at which time he suffered a stroke of paralysis.

The deceased was born in Ireland on December 14, 1833 and up to 18 years of age lived in Manchester, England, coming to this country with his parents in 1851. After residing in Grampian a few years, Mr. Connelly moved to Clearfield where he engaged in the shoe making business, which occupation he followed up until 1881 when he was elected Justice of the Peace. He held the office of justice of the peace for twenty five years. Mr. Connelly was also a member of the town council for many years and served as Burgess.

In 1894 he was united in marriage to Miss Maria Daugherty who survives him. The deceased is also survived by the following children: James D., J. Frank and Miss Augusta Connelly of Clearfield, Mrs. M. J. McGinnis of Pottsville and Hugh L. of Butler.

Washington, March 6. (By United Press)—Newton D. Baker, aged 45, twice Mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, disciple of Tom Jones and effective supporter of President Wilson at the Baltimore convention, will be secretary of war in the President's cabinet. Admission of the fact was made at the white house today. Baker, who twice declined an invitation to become secretary of the interior when the President was forming his cabinet, has accepted the place made vacant by Lindley M. Garrison's resignation.

The appointment of Baker, the President, it is stated, meets a qualification which it has been intimated is considered important—that the new secretary be an attorney from the middle west. He has had a rough and tumble experience of politics being a long term pupil of Tom Johnson.

Washington, March 6. (By United Press)—Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, will be secretary of war according to information learned today any believed to be absolutely reliable. Announcement of the appointment, it is stated, may be expected from the White House in the next few days. The President, it is understood, has been advised by the attorney general's office that General Scott, chief of staff, cannot be retained as acting secretary of war longer than next Saturday when his thirty day appointment expires.

Baker is not entirely without cabinet experience. He served as private secretary to Postmaster General Wilson from 1896 to 1897. In addition to practicing law, he was city solicitor of Cleveland for ten years, serving from 1902 to 1912. His work as solicitor won him great public favor and he was elected to his first term as mayor of Cleveland in 1912. He was re-elected in 1914 and left office in 1916. He has always been a prominent Democrat and is a strong personal friend of President Wilson.

THREE VERDUN FORTS ARE

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Three of the Verdun forts defending the city from the east have been almost totally wrecked by the German bombardment, according to Amsterdam dispatches today. The Amsterdam dispatch repeated previous reports unconfirmed from Berlin, that fort Devaux, five miles northeast of Verdun, is in ruins. It added that forts Moulinville and Detavennes next in line south of Devaux have been badly damaged by German mortars if they have not been totally destroyed.

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Following the repulse of heavy attacks against the French front extending west from Douaumont, the Germans did not return to the attack last night, this afternoon's official statement from the French and German war offices indicated. Paris reported violent artillery fire on the left bank of the Meuse west of Douaumont and in the Woerthe region, but no important infantry action on the north Verdun front. The German war office mentioned only minor engagements around Verdun.

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
Berlin, March 6. (By United Press)—The senate vote of confidence in President Wilson last Friday has lessened the possibility of a German-American break, well informed Americans who have canvassed the situation thoroughly, reported today. Officials are somewhat puzzled as to the exact meaning of the senate vote, but the general opinion is that it strengthened the hands of those who though desiring a most vigorous submarine war do not want to take any chance of a break with America. The newspapers agree that the senate seemingly voted to keep hands off of German-American controversy excepting in a case likely to result in war.

Copy of a Photograph of Trenches in Champagne District

(1) German First Line Trenches. (5) French First Line Trenches. (7) Space Between First Line (A) German and French Approach Trenches.

This drawing was made from a remarkable photograph of the German and French trenches in the Champagne district taken by a French officer from an aeroplane. For the first time since the war began here is given an accurate picture of trenches. The small black dots scattered over the map show where shells by the thousands have burst. A striking fact shown by the photograph is that the trenches are built with many curves and angles to prevent the enemy shooting down them in case of capture.

The German trenches are those at the top of the map. They show four lines with many connecting trenches. Only two lines of the French trenches are shown because the aviator was more intent on getting a photograph of the enemy's trenches for use by the French. The photograph was so indistinct that the only way it could be reproduced was by tracing, as is done here.

ZEPPELIN RAID ON ENGLAND KILLS 12 AND INJURES MANY

Zeppelin Drop Bombs on Eight
Counties Near London De-
stroying Much Property

Reports States That Three Zeppelins
Participated in Raid—Four Women
and Five Children Victims of Dirig-
ibles.

London, March 6. (By United Press)—Twelve persons were killed and thirty-three injured in Sunday night's Zeppelin raid over northeast coast of England, it was officially announced today. Two raiding airships dropped bombs on Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, Butland, Cambridge, Norfolk, Essex and Kent. The dirigibles dropped 40 bombs destroying houses on two terraces and damaging several shops, it was stated. The dead are three men, four women and five children.

It is now believed that three Zeppelins participated in the raid. An earlier statement from the admiralty reported only two Zeppelins engaged. In extent of territory visited last night in the Zeppelin raid on England this was perhaps the greatest of the war according to the London official statement. Eight counties extending along the North sea coast and east and north east of London were visited. The statement that both Essex and Kent counties adjoining the city of London were raised indicates that the Zeppelins may come very close to London itself.

Berlin, March 6.—Official announcement was made by the naval general staff today that the German commerce raider Moewe has returned to a German port. She had on board 199 prisoners and 1,000,000 marks in gold bars. The statement follows: The naval general staff states that Lt. M. S. Moewe, commander, Capt. Burgrave, Count von Dohna-Schludern, after a successful cruise lasting several months, arrived today at some home port with four British officers, 29 British marines and sailors, 166 men of crews of enemy steamers, among them 103 Indians, as prisoners and 1,000,000 marks in gold bars.

The vessel captured the following enemy steamers the greater part of which were sunk and a small part of which were sent as prizes to neutral ports:

The British steamers Corbridge, 3,687 tons; Author, 3,496 tons; Trader, 3,608 tons; Aradine, 3,035 tons; Dromedary, 3,627 tons; Farrington, 3,116 tons; Clan MacTavish, 5,816 tons; Appam, 7,741 tons; Westburn, 3,300 tons; Horace, 3,335 tons; Flammion, 1,523 tons; Saxon Prince, 3,171 tons.

INDIANA TO HOLD FIRST PREFERENCE PRIMARY TUESDAY

Voters Will Record Preference
For Nominees To Many
Important Offices

Indiana is First State to Present
Campaign to Hold Preference Pri-
mary For Presidency—Campaign
Exceedingly Complicated and Involved.

Indianapolis, March 6.—After one of the most spirited campaigns in the political history of Indiana, the state-wide primary election will be held tomorrow. At that time the voters will record their preference for nominees for the presidency, for the vice presidency, for the United States senatorship, and for the governorship and other state offices to be filled at the election next November.

Indiana will be the first state in the present campaign to have a preferential presidential vote, but this feature is made almost devoid of interest by the fact that only one candidate has filed for the presidency on each of the party tickets. The Republicans are for Charles W. Fairbanks for President and there is no Democratic opposition to the renomination of President Wilson. Vice President Thomas R. Marshall also will receive the Democratic endorsement for renomination.

On the other hand, the campaign for nominations for governor and other state officers is exceedingly complicated and involved. This applies also to the contest for the republican nomination for United States senator. No opposition exists among the Democrats to the renomination of Senator John W. Kern. On the Republican side there is a bitter contest for the senatorial nomination between former Congressman James E. Watson and Capt. Harry S. New, one-time chairman of the Republican national committee. Judge James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, will receive the Progressive nomination for senator without opposition.

John A. M. Adair, for many years the congressman from the Eighth district, is expected to be nominated by the Democrats for governor. His opponent is Leonard P. Clark, of LaPorte. For the head of the Republican state ticket the rival aspirants are James F. Goodrich, of Vincennes

G.H.S. Returns From Down River
Trip with Two More Victo-
ries To Its Credit

Defeated Jersey Shore Friday Evening by Score of 45-29 and Lock
Haven Normal Saturday Evening
By Score of 36-17.

The Clearfield high school basketball team returned yesterday from a two days trip down the river, on which two more victories were added to its credit. Friday evening the Clearfield team defeated Jersey Shore high by a score of 45-29. This was the first time since basketball was started in Jersey Shore that the high school team has been defeated on their home floor. Saturday evening The Red and Black five defeated Lock Haven Normal in an exciting game, score 36-17.

Both games played on this trip were hard ones and increase the reputation of the Clearfield team. The Jersey Shore game was especially interesting and marked by fast teamwork and excellent passing and shooting. The first half ended with the score 20-19 in Clearfield's favor but during the second half Clearfield displayed a new flash of speed and walked away with their opponent, scoring twenty-five points to Jersey Shore's ten. Lynn was the star of the game and largest individual point gainer, caging nine baskets.

The Lock Haven Normal game played Saturday evening was reported to be the fastest played on the floor this season. In spite of the large floor, Clearfield out classed Normal in every department of the game. The first half ended with the score 24-6 in Clearfield's favor but during the second half Clearfield lacked speed on account of being tired from Friday night's game, and scored only one more point than their opponents in this half. Lynn again starred and scored twenty two points.

Clearfield high has established a record so far this season which has never been equaled by a Clearfield team. The schedule which has been played is the hardest ever made out for a Clearfield high school team and included two Normal teams, one college team and some of the fastest high school teams of the state. Indiana Normal is the only team that has defeated Clearfield this season and only one game has ended in a tie, that being the DuBois game played at DuBois.

DELEGATES TABLE CENTRALIZATION BY BIG MAJORITY

Two Days Debate Ends Saturday Morning—Resolution Defeated By Vote of 102-22

Only Small Percentage of Delegates
Has Been Acted Upon—Several
Committees Will Make Report This
Week—First Week Ended Saturday
Night.

After two days of almost continuous debate for and against the centralization plan of government in District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers of America, the delegates, just before adjournment at Saturday noon, voted to table the entire question, the margin of victory for the proponents of centralization being heavy, 102 to 22. The officers claim that this vote settles the matter for all time so far as the present convention is concerned. This question has clogged proceedings and it is believed that with this matter out of the way that fast progress will be made on the other business before the delegates.

During the debate on the sub-district question, there were flashes of oratory, fine argumentation, inventive bright repartee and direct charges of wrong-doing but when the session adjourned it was believed that a majority of the delegates were more than satisfied that the matter had finally come to a vote and was out of the way. Many of the speakers Saturday morning spoke of the fact that too much time was being used and valuable money spent. In this regard it is safe to say that the time consumed in debating the centralization system and its effect on the delegates had cost the organization in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Saturday Morning
Delegates began the debate at Saturday morning by discussing the officers always get the last opportunity to speak on a subject, as someone generally made a motion that debate cease just as soon as any of the officials had spoken finally. He denounced the charge that members of the organization were after office. He claimed that under the sub-district system better conditions existed than prevailed at present.

Delegate King, of Barnabach, spoke in favor of sub-district government. Delegate Egan, of DuBois, at this point injected somewhat of a sensation into the convention. He stated that while some of the officials had intimated that men who advocated sub-districts wanted jobs, nothing was said about some of the present officials who went so far as to Spanish marked ballots at elections. As the ballots are in the keeping of Secretary Gilbert, this official demanded to know if he was the one meant. Delegate Egan replied no. When asked to name the official he named Board Member Frank White. This brought forth a statement from Mr. White, in which he explained that the supposed marked ballot had been in the possession of Fred Thomas, district organizer, and was voted at an election in Ramsaytown, but that Mr. Thomas' action had been investigated and he was exonerated. There was a storm brewing, but the chair ruled out debate of an extraneous nature, and the regular matter under discussion was taken up. But Mr. White managed to get in the statement that any man who accused him of giving out marked ballots was telling a falsehood. Delegate Egan declared the truth was not in Mr. White, and here the matter rested.

After Delegate Green had made a short speech in which he advocated a referendum of the men and not of the locals, President James Percell took up the discussion and announced a large number of arguments that had been brought up by the delegates in the course of their remarks in regard to sub-districts. It was shortly after his remarks that a motion was made to table the entire matter of sub-districts. The motion was put by Vice President O'Neil and carried by a vote of 102 to 22. The convention then adjourned until this morning.

To most men team work means hitching a willing horse in single harness.

The Gore and McLemore resolutions might just as well "lie" on the table as anywhere else.

Why all this pot and pother about who invented trench warfare when the lowly chigger has been "digging in" since Eve ate the apple?

Now that the court house loafers are driven to secure new quarters, a ferry to put one through the flood of amber juice which inundates the edifice in warm summer weather will no longer be necessary.

The feat of the Moewe must be a bitter pill to the British Grand Fleet, which has been scouring the Seven Seas for the daring German raider. Safe at Wilhelmshaven, she adds another to the many thrilling episodes of the war.

The high school basket ball shooters came through with two more victories last week, both of them signal ones because they were won away from home and from teams which ordinarily are considered out of our class. Make the sheet a clean one, boys, and more power to you!

ASSIMILATING RAW MATERIAL.

The Y. M. C. A. membership campaign has closed. Three hundred and sixty-five men and young men signed applications which will make them members of the association for one year. Most of this material is raw, in the sense that the men are unfamiliar with the purposes and aims of the institution with which they have affiliated themselves. Much of it is raw, in still another sense of never having come in intimate contact with the kind of fellowship that it will find in Y. M. C. A. circles. Many of these new men are going to be of the diamond in the rough variety, for they were recruited from walks of life into which few associations venture in search of material, and they are apt sometimes to jar and to seem sometimes to fail to fit into the scheme because of faulty understanding of it.

We believe it to be the duty of every older member of the association to put forth a special effort to make the assimilation of these men into the organization easier. Unless they have brought into and made a part of the association, unless some special effort is made to compensate them for their willingness to take the association "on trial," as it were, taking them in will prove a mistake which will cost the association dearly in prestige among the very classes of men which it strives hardest to interest in its work.

WILL PATIENCE SURVIVE IT?

"For the first time in the history of the United States a war-like president has been elected by congress. Would to God that the parliaments of England, France and Russia had done likewise. If they had protested before irreparable steps were taken as our congress has done Europe would not be at war today."—From "The Fatherland," in editorial comment on the situation of the past two weeks at the national capital.

How much longer must this particularly brand of Germanized treason be inflicted upon American intelligence? Wilson warlike? Then, in God's name, what superlative fittingly designates the kaiser, why not only precipitated this world tragedy, but who bent every atom of the devilish ingenuity of his people to preparation for it, even to poison gas, and Zeppelin raids which have taken toll only in the life of innocent women and children?

Each week, unbidden, and unwelcome, save that we feel it a duty to keep abreast with Vierick's absurdly offensive propaganda, "The Fatherland" finds its way into The Progress office. We presume it finds its way also into every other newspaper office in the United States. We can conceive of no method of reasoning other than the unreasoning German fundamental of affirmation, which might lead its sponsors to believe that "The Fatherland" can be other than an offense to the man who are expected to read it. Its campaign of treason is more violent and less intelligent than the wildest flights of a thousand Emma Goldmanns, and we believe that it would have been cut short long ago had not this government sought to avoid any act which might further inflame the war-crazed brain of the German bureaucracy.

Miss Margaret Wilson always was a suffragist at heart, but it was not until last year, after her father had announced his own views on the question of votes for women, that she permitted herself to come out and work for the enfranchisement of her sex.

On Wednesday, February 9, Miss Wilson was one of the hostesses at a Suffrage Tea given in New York City, where Miss Julia Lathrop, head of the National Children's Bureau, spoke about the relation of suffrage to child welfare. The Children's Bureau is another one of the human-interests of Miss Margaret, whose unaffected love of humanity has led her to ally herself with many philanthropic movements. Miss Wilson, who seldom makes speeches, since she needs to save her voice for her art, has usually been a silent, but attentive, on-looker at the various meetings of the movements in which she is deeply interested.

It is said that she always gives the proceeds of her concert money to the work of the blind, for while she is an enthusiastic lover of her work, she does not sing to enrich herself, but to help mankind.

ENGLISH WAITING FOR GERMAN NAVY TO LEAVE COVER

Large Fleet Patiently Waiting For Teutons to Leave Kiel Or Heligoland Today

Sailors Make Shells and Other Articles For Use in the Army—Movies Presented on Board of Every Ship. No Lack of Morale Due to Inactivity.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the British Battle Cruiser Squadron, Somewhere in the North Sea, Feb. 18. (By Mail)—Standing placidly at anchor, but in formidable battle array, the British navy's "fighting veterans" of the battles of Heligoland Light and Doggerbank were still waiting for the Germans to come out today.

Great, long grey warships, their engines ready to turn the propellers; like greyhoundish scout cruisers and swarms of diminutive black destroyers and torpedo boats, all fully manned and ready for action, appeared anxious and willing today to be off in chase or battle.

By courtesy of the British Admiralty I was able to see to close range the real reason why there has been no warfare in the North sea since January 24, 1915, when the German Blücher was sunk and the Derfflinger, Moltke and Seydlitz were forced to run to cover in the German minefields. Since that time the German fleet has remained at home.

Preparedness personified in ships and men, the British squadron is ready to remain thus for years if necessary, according to the officers and men with whom I talked.

Well ahead in the battle line is the Tiger, 700 feet of the same fighting cat that showed her teeth to the Blücher in the Doggerbank action. A dented armor plate just above the waterline mark of a fatal shot from the Blücher, is a lasting memento still carried by the Tiger. The shell was from one of the Teuton's 11 inch guns, the Tiger's officers declare. It failed to penetrate the nine inch belt of Krupp armor while the Tiger's 13½ inch guns were performing the equalled "krupp-armor-buster" German battle cruiser.

Berlin still believes the Tiger was sunk in this action. A possible forecast of future German naval warfare in the North sea and an explanation of why the German belief is firm that the Tiger went down was given by one of the Tiger's officers. When the Blücher turned her massive hull to view, a Zeppelin appeared 10,000 feet above and dropped bombs in the vicinity of the boats of the British fleet busy picking up the Blücher's survivors.

Observers on the air ship saw the Blücher's death struggle and assumed that it was the Tiger. The word was carried back to Berlin and officially announced to the world before Germany saw fit to announce that the Blücher was sunk. It was the same old Tiger, however, which the writer inspected from stem to stern today, and seeing is believing.

Not far astern the Tiger stood the other member of the Battle Squadron's cat family. It was the Lion, bristling with guns, big and small, primed and ready for any emergency. Nearby lay the New Zealand, a gift to the navy from New Zealanders in 1910 and which made a record trip around the World just before the war. The Princess Royal, 700 trim feet of fighting ship, also was nearby keeping silent company with the other fleet units, the identities of which must remain Admiralty secrets.

The Battle Cruiser Squadron is waiting for something out of the air which will set dozens of engines racing toward the open sea and cause hundreds of officers, gunners and stokers and thousands of seamen to jump to their battle stations. Less than ten minutes after the "prepare for action" comes from the flagship the leading scout cruisers will be tearing out to sea. Close behind, a few moments later, will come the speedy battle cruisers primed for the long awaited but ever welcome action.

Every four days some of these lighter craft, scout cruisers and torpedo boats, arise seaward to take their patrol stations where the wireless ears can be nearer the German coast. It is these craft that will give the signal. Their diversions at the moment is hunting the elusive submarine, many of which it was learned today, have cruised their lives in quest of the Battle Cruiser Squadron's haven. Many notes, far from their inland act as the Squadron's second line of defense against the submarine. Whether these notes have been effective for catching purposes is a question that goes currently unanswered. This must remain a secret until after the war.

Famous Fighters Mixing in Society at Palm Beach

Willie Ritchie, American Lightweight Champion, Mrs. Kid McCoy and Kid McCoy

You can't keep the modern fighter out of society, and Willie Ritchie, American lightweight champion is proving it. Kid McCoy and Mrs. Kid McCoy are helping him. They are just now rubbing elbows with society folk idling at Palm Beach. See the dapper white tuxedo suit the American lightweight champion wears. Ritchie is the modern "gentleman fighter." At Palm Beach he is Mr. George Steffen, of San Francisco. Kid McCoy has, of course, been a favorite of fashion for many years. At Palm Beach he is Mr. Norman Selby, of Indiana and Broadway.

Despite the long wait for the Germans to emerge from Kiel or Heligoland there is no lack of rumors, due to inactivity, among the personnel of the British fleet. The hundreds of seamen aboard the various units can turn their hand to merriment making at any hour of the day. Steel lathes in the hold of every cruiser are busy making small shells and parts of shells for the army.

On the second deck of every ship is a battery of sewing machines and a supply of heavy canvases. Tens of thousands of articles, useful to soldier or sailor, are turned out weekly in this part of the North Sea. The work is voluntary. Each week, small patrol boats slip up to the cruisers and take aboard the necessities which are shipped by rail to various army depots.

A portion of the crew, officers first, see the movies on board every night. Charlie Chaplin performs his antics for every member of the Battle Cruiser Squadron from Admiral Blank down to the smallest mess boy.

Periodically the great rafts, incidentally of American manufacture, which hang on the superstructure of all the squadron's units are launched for competitive raft races by picked men of the crews. There are many other smaller diversions that keep the British jack-boots from worry about his watchful waiting.

Among the ships visited today, a question was the question asked "When are the Germans going to come out?" Officers and men, alike, apparently are content to wait. There are no melancholy faces anywhere in this part of the North sea.

GARRY HERRMAN TO TAKE PART IN BASEBALL CONFER

Constitutional Convention of Amateur Federation Will be Held

Johnstown, Pa., March 5. (By United Press)—A constitutional convention of the newly organized Amateur National Baseball Federation of the United States will be held in Cincinnati March 10th and 11th at which time uniform rules will be adopted for all the cities affiliated with the federation, which now include Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Johnston and Louisville.

Garry Herrmann, President of the National commission governing professional baseball, is manifesting keen interest in the amateur organization and will be chairman of the forthcoming gathering of amateur sportsmen in Cincinnati.

The federation has begun a survey of the amateur baseball situation throughout the country with a view to eluding the various amateur organizations into a compact body. The survey is being directed from the office of Tom Nokes, National Secretary, here and the co-operation of sporting editors in every city of consequence has been invited.

The cost of the survey is to be borne by voluntary contributions. It is expected that wealthy sportsmen who favor the amateur game will contribute liberally to the expenses of the organization and a big fund probably will be realized.

MRS. PANKHURST'S "WAR BABIES."

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes of England, showed this photograph of the four war babies she has taken to raise when she was at the McAlbin Hotel in New York the other day. They are the Misses Joan, Elizabeth and Mary, one six months and Kathleen one year old.

"The fathers of two were officers killed at the Battle of the Somme," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "I am raising them as an experiment, and am deeply attached to them. Each has its story, and they were selected as the best examples of their class. They will be given the same bringing up that my own children receive, and when the time comes for the nation to tackle the problem of the blind, deaf, dumb, or crippled, these four will be a helpful precedent, showing how war babies can be raised, and the term 'war babies' was adopted only to give prominence to the movement of caring for this problem, which is vital."

SYRIAN GIRL STARTS FUND TO BUILD U. S. SUBMARINE

Newark, O., March 5. (By United Press)—Miss Amessa Samadi, 19, a Syrian girl here has sworn her allegiance to the cause of the defense of the United States and she has started a popular subscription fund among the Retail Clerks Association of the United States, asking each member to contribute 25 cents, the total to be given to the Adjutant General of Ohio to use for building a submarine for the United States government.

The project has the approval of state officials and Miss Samadi was given a check for a substantial contribution by the association. The banks have volunteered to be guaranties for the fund. Already more than $200 has been subscribed here. Circular letters have been sent to the secretary of every retail clerks' association in the country asking for their support and favorable replies have been received from many of them.

Miss Samadi was born in the foothills of Mt. Olive near the cities of Beirut and Damascus, both famous in biblical history, and she seeks to show the people of the United States how deeply at heart the Syrian people have the welfare of the United States.

FIRST BABY WEEK OF ILLINOIS TO START TOMORROW

Over Two Thousand Communities of Four Counties Will Observe Baby Week

Wisconsin Proposes State Wide Campaign—Many Interesting and Instructive Programs Have Been Prepared in Many Cities and Towns

Washington, March 4. (By United Press)—Babies of four colors and two nationalities were the center of attraction in 2,029 communities in the United States, Alaska, the Philippines, Canada and the British West Indies today. They will hold the spotlight for the succeeding six days of National Baby week, inaugurated by the General Federation of Women's clubs and sponsored by the Federal Children's bureau.

The babies don't know it, but they are the reason for hundreds of nursing courses, child welfare exhibits, window decorating contests, bazaars, essay contests and general meetings planned during the week in the United States and its possessions, not to mention again Canada and the British West Indies.

Wisconsin proposed a state-wide campaign to place emphasis on adequate nursing, care and instruction for prospective mothers. Texas has its own baby week slogan; "Baby Health is Texas wealth." Mississippi has a slogan of its own. North Dakota is holding an essay contest in public schools. A Colorado settlement 40 miles from a railroad, a woman's club on a western reclamation project, a Montana coal mining town with a large foreign population, a southern mill village and several farm women's clubs are holding celebrations.

Child welfare exhibits were prepared by women's clubs in Omaha and Lincoln. These will be sent throughout Nebraska. A Maryland town will have a birth registration day; a merchant has promised a tooth brush to every mother who goes to the city hall to find whether her baby's birth is registered. Another city inaugurated a competition for the cleverest widow plan.

Manila will have its meetings during the week; the babies on two Indian reservations will be brought from their wigwams, if their parents still affect wigwams, to share in the enlightenment, and to blink boredly during tribal conferences concerning them.

Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Richmond, San Francisco, Washington and other large cities have programs. New York will have a baby week of its own late this spring. Many rural communities have announced their intention to participate.

Plans differ, in some respects, in all of the 2,000 cities. But if all the celebrations are the successes the Children's bureau believes they will be, International Baby ought to rise several points before the market closes next Saturday.

Springfield, Ill., March 4. —Half a million mothers "little darlings," including white babies, black babies and chocolate colored ones were fed, cuddled and groomed today for the opening of Illinois' first Baby week. From Mauckogon on the north to Cairo on the south the infants prepared to open the week with a grand bawl.

"We are going to crown the babies kings and queens in Illinois next week," Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, secretary of the state board of health, which arranged the event, announced today.

"Every city of any importance in the state has determined to participate, with baby shows, mother meetings, public lectures at which the best way to care for infants will be told, and even the churches will help by devoting sermons tomorrow to babies."

Illinois realizes, said Drake, that some cuddling, dimpled fist belonging to an infant from the corn belt may hold the nation's destiny some day, and that some girl baby with dimples in her chubby little knees may grow up to be the first woman president.

"We want to make them all fit for these honors," Drake said. "The fate of all nations rests with their babies. Good babies for Illinois—that's our slogan."

In addition to the contests, which will terminate next Sunday in "review day," most of the cities will observe the following schedule:

Sunday—Baby Sunday in the churches. Monday—Little Mothers day, in which children will be taught the proper care of infants. Tuesday—Fathers and Sons day, in which

WHALE-CUB TEAM LEAVES FOR SOUTHERN TRAINING

Very Few Rookies in Bunch Which Leaves Today for Tampa

Chicago, March 5. (By United Press)—Charlie Weighman's arraigned, Whale-Cub team is on its way today for the seaport training trip. Thirty-two players were taken along. A train de luxe, including six parlor coaches, equipped with everything from a billiard table to a Victrola, carries the party, which includes players, club officials, newspapermen and 33rd degree fans, to the training camp at Tampa, Fla.

The team is the strongest aggregation of ball players gotten together since the days of Frank Chance's World Champion Cubs, in the opinion of fans. Manager Joe Tinker, who led the Federal Whales to the league championship last year, has a handpicked bunch of players. Every one has a rep. The squad is noticeably free of rookies.

His pitching staff includes Three Fingers Brown, Hendrix, Seaton, Prendergast, McConnell, Lavender, Zabel and Wright, all right handers. In the way of southpaws he has Vaughn, Pierce and Bailey. Brown is the man on which Tinker relies to keep the hurlers in shape and occasionally to save a losing game.

The catching staff is one of the best in the country. Jimmy Archer is considered to be without a peer. The addition of Clemens, Wilson and Fischer will help a great deal. The infield will be composed of Saier on first, Yerkes at second, Doolin on short and Zimmerman at third. Then Tinker has in himself a crackjack of a utility man. The outfield will be composed of five stars: Schulte, Mann, Flack, Williams and Zwilling.

In addition to those mentioned the following players will be taken on the trip: Allison, Baily, Fritz, Mulligan, McConnell, McCarthy, Pierce and Pecheus. Exhibition games have been scheduled as follows: New Orleans at New Orleans April 3. Shreveport April 5-6-7; Memphis at Memphis April 8; Louisville at Louisville April 9-10-11.

The second team stages its first game at Shreveport April 1; April 3 and 4 are open and on the 5th it plays Pine Bluff, Ark. at Pine Bluff. On the 6th and 7th Little Rock, Ark. at Little Rock; Both teams meet at Memphis on the 8th to come north.

PROPOSE VATICAN BAN OF WRITINGS OF G. D'ANNUNZIO

Decree Expected To Arouse Stormiest Affair of Modern Italian Life In Years

D'Annunzio Won For Himself a Place in Hearts of Italians Along With Garibaldi, Victor Emmanuel and King's Two Immediate Predecessors

BY HENRY WOOD (United Press Staff Correspondent) Rome, Feb. 20. (By Mail)—According to well informed Vatican circles the congregation of the Index has just prepared a ban of interdiction against all the recent works of Gabriele D'Annunzio, one of Italy's greatest modern poets, novelists, dramatists, and it might even be said probably her greatest modern patriot. The publication of the decree is expected to arouse one of the stormiest affairs of modern Italian life since the separation of the Vatican and the Quirinal.

Although D'Annunzio's literary fame has long been established it is only since Italy began her military career four years ago with the campaign in Tripoli, that D'Annunzio has won for himself a place in the hearts of all Italians along with Garibaldi, Victor Emmanuel and King Victor's two immediate predecessors.

D'Annunzio's poetry during the Tripoli war, singing the glory of Italian arms, aroused all Italy to a veritable frenzy of appreciation and admiration. Even this was outdone when early in the present war D'Annunzio made himself the champion of Italy's entrance and both by pen and voice worked day and night with all the genius at his command until Italy finally got in. His reward was the decoration from King Victor Emmanuel of the order of the Annunziata, which makes him a cousin of the King, and the enshrining of himself in the hearts of the Italian people as its most popular idol.

Under the circumstances the Congregation of the Index is declared seriously to have considered the advisability of a ban at the present moment against D'Annunzio's latest works, nearly all of which consist of poems inspired by Italy's military glory. It was recognized that such an action at this time undoubtedly would call down on the Vatican the anger of all Italy. More than a few Italians would be inclined to regard the ban as another Vatican blow at the Quirinal.

On the other hand, the venerable cardinals composing the Congregation of the Index, finally decided that their duty was purely a religious one and that therefore they had no right to let any other consideration interfere with its discharge. The questioned works of D'Annunzio are said to have been condemned on almost every score on which it is possible for the Congregation of the Index to condemn modern writings.

It is understood the ban will announce that the writings possess religious and philosophical errors that there is in them a grand mixture of sacred and profane ideas; that there is repeated abuse both of biblical words and biblical images, and that above all they are profoundly irrelevant to such a degree as greatly to disturb the mind of any Catholic reader.

It is not expected that D'Annunzio will take the ban of condemnation with a great degree of seriousness. He has never at any time showed himself as being very susceptible to charges of any kind that might be brought against him.

One of the last decrees of the Congregation of the Index was against all the works of Maeterlinck, the great modern Belgian poet and playwright.

WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

McMinnville, Ore., March 6.—Mrs. Agnes Booth, aged 33, was arraigned in the state circuit court today for trial on an indictment charging her with the murder of her husband, William Booth, last October. The killing of Booth, a well-to-do resident of Williamina, is alleged by the state to have been the result of Mrs. Booth's infatuation for William Branson, who is ten years her junior. Mrs. Booth and Branson were indicted and tried jointly for the murder last November, when the jury failed to agree on a verdict. Subsequently Branson was given a separate trial and was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

St. Paul, Minn., March 5. (By United Press)—The big state of Minnesota has inherited a machine that makes train unnecessary, but it may lose it by a case in court today.

SWEET DAY

Carey, O., March 6. (By United Press)—Two hundred pounds of honey stored by bees between the ceiling of the first story and floor of the second was taken from the home of Mrs. Catherine Houk here. The bees found a small opening in the brick wall and made the space their winter home for many years. The honey they had stored up filled a space the depth of the rafters and sixteen inches wide by six feet long. It was of the finest quality. Neighbors feasted.

Easy Divorce in the Wrong State.

The Philadelphia Press has just called attention to its "easy divorce law" passed by the Pennsylvania legislature in 1913 as one that would attract people seeking divorce to Pennsylvania rather than to Nevada if its peculiar merits were generally known. The validity of the law is now being contested in the courts. But it does not alter the fact that the law was passed. If this had happened in a suffrage state, it would have been laid up to the votes of women, even if the women had not voted for members of the legislature.

Montenegrin Mountaineer Startled The French

This bold mountaineer from Montenegro was the chief guard of King Nicholas, who fled from his country when the Austrians swept through it. He was at the side of the king and his family as they made their way through Italy and France to Lyons. This photograph shows him beside a French soldier, above whom he towers. The smaller Frenchmen were startled when they beheld the savage looking mountain man armed to the teeth. Now he is an accepted character in Lyons and the Frenchmen have taken to him.

BRAVES ON TRIAL TO MIAMI FOR SPRING TRAINING CAMP

Aided by Rare Talent From Defunct Feds, Braves Expect to Win '16 Pennant

Boston, March 4. (By United Press)—The Braves are on the trail to the spring training camp at Miami, Fla., today. They are expected to arrive there for their initial 1916 powwow with the ball and bat March 7th.

Aided and abetted by the addition of some rare talent from the defunct Feds and under the tutelage of a new boss, the Boston Nationals look better to local fans than ever as they whirl away for the dirt diamonds and sandy sliding pits of the sunny south.

Percy Haughton, famous Harvard coach and new President of the Braves, did not plan to be present when the team gets going at training quarters.

The Braves will have their usual long work-outs, and fortified with Ed. Konechky and a couple of other Federal league stars, are expected to attract every bit as much attention as they did a year ago when they packed the big title around.

Local fans believe the Stallings stars would have cashed in once more last season but for an unprecedented flock of trouble in the form of suspensions, injuries and so on. Said fans also know that the former champions constitute a good fighting team, and that this year, with every man in line, with the exception of Schmidt, whose shoes should be more than filled by "Big Ed" they are likely to come back to the farm that made them somewhat spectacular in 1914.

The schedule of the Braves is much more extensive, expansive and comprehensive than ever before.

When they finally all get together the Braves will have the following collection of talent, which looks pretty good to the Hub fans: Manager George Stallings and Business Manager Walter Haggood; Tyler, Lowe, Lee, Ricco, "Rabbit" Maranville, Evers, J. and M. Shannon, Magee, R. Rudolph, Fitzpatrick, Knetzer, Eddie Collins, Wilhoit, James Barnes, Compton, Strand, Konechky, Blackburn, Neph Egan, Gregg, Traggerson, Allen, Smith, Gowdy, Ragan, Hughes, Chauncey, Connolly and Snodgrass.

Stallings is known to be on the war-path for a catcher. With Konechky holding down first the old Rabbit-Evers combination around the key-stone sack, the "Red" Smith on the hot corner, they will not have to take anybody's dust when it comes to infielders.

Out near the fence, there will be a hot fight for the three steady jobs: Magee, Snodgrass, Connolly, Egan, Eddie Collins, Fitzpatrick, Compton, Shannon and Wilhoit will all be in the struggle; and there is just about enough material in the bunch to make three first-class outfielders for any team in the league.

Behind the bat there will be "Hammering Hank" Gowdy, Traggerson, and a couple of youngsters, while in the box, well—with Bill James in 1914 form, and Knetzer and Allen added to the already tip-top staff of twirlers the Boston fans are sitting back and chuckling.

For the first time in the history of Alabama a woman lawyer participated in a murder case when Margaret Hamilton Ervin, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., defended Leland Cass before the court of Anniston. Miss Ervin also has the honor of being the first woman lawyer ever admitted to the Chattanooga Bar Association, and is the first woman who ever argued a case before the Supreme Court of Tennessee. The Anniston Star says: "Miss Ervin offered many valuable suggestions to the associate counsel and her appearance in the case was plainly a strong factor in favor of the defendant."

Another step in woman's progress was taken last week, when the first woman justices in the British empire were nominated in South Australia. They include Mrs. Price, widow of the first Labor Premier in the State.

Miss Reineke Schridge, of Butte, who received the degree of bachelor of arts and bachelor of law from the University of Montana last week, has the distinction of being the first girl to receive an LL. B. from that university.

Elected in Joke; Serves in Earnest.

In Alliance, Ohio, Miss John Gruber was elected by a joking male electorate as constable. Miss Gruber, who was an enthusiastic suffrage worker, has said that "if a majority of the people want a woman to hold a certain office they should be allowed to elect her." Men of the town ship wrote her name on their ballots for "tom" and now she is constable of Smith township.

A New York City paper has recently remarked that she may prove as valuable an officer as though she had acquired her position by the help of a ward "boss."

Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By BREEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

ORPET EXPECTS TO BE INDICTED FOR LAMBERT MURDER

State's Attorney Will Reveal Long Chain of Circumstantial Evidence Before Jury

Orpet and Attorney Expect to Prove That Marion Lambert Committed Suicide—Many Facts in the Tragedy Are Admitted by the Defense.

Waukegan, Ill., March 5. (By United Press)—The Lake County grand jury met today to hear evidence concerning the tragedy of pretty Marian Lambert, an 18-year-old Lake Forest High School girl for whose mysterious death William H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin junior is in jail charged with murder. State's Attorney Ralph J. Day planned to reveal a chain of circumstantial evidence before the jury, with a request for speedy indictment. Orpet and his counsel admitted the probability of Orpet's indictment, but added that they were reserving their strength for the trial. Orpet and his attorneys predicted it will be established that Marian committed suicide. Facts in the tragedy admitted by the defense and the state, are:

Young Orpet and Marian, friends for years, had trodden the primrose path in their love idyl, a romance of the forests on the great Cyrus H. McCormick estate near Lake Forest. Marian had written Orpet that she feared the consequence of their intrigue. On the morning of February 9, Marian left her home on the Kuppenheimer estate where her father is chief engineer. On the evening of February 8 young Orpet left Madison Wis., the university town, after arranging an alibi to conceal his departure. On the morning of February 9, Marian and Orpet met in the woods near the "three trees," a favorite trysting spot for Lake Forest youths and maidens. On the afternoon of February 10, Marion's father, Frank Lambert and a friend, William Marshall, found Marion's body in the woods. It lay in the snow, apparently undisturbed, as if Marian were asleep. One hand was unclenched. The other held her school books. On the evening of February 11, Orpet was arrested at Madison. The next day he was formally charged with murder. An autopsy disclosed that cyanide of potassium, taken either in liquid or powder form, caused Marian's death. Crystals of this same poison were found beneath Marian's fingernails. Cyanide of potassium was used in gardening by Marian's father and by Orpet's father, William O. Orpet, who is gardener on the McCormick estate, in fighting garden insect pests. The poison also was easy of access to Marian at her high school laboratory and to Orpet at the University of Wisconsin laboratory. Young Orpet hoped to marry Miss Celestia Youker, an instructor at the state normal college at DeKalb, Ill. Miss Lambert was not in the condition she feared. Orpet's story is that Marian killed herself when he left her in the woods, after telling her he was "through," and planned to marry Miss Youker. He said he left Marian crying, that she called to him and he returned and found her dying. Day's theory is that Orpet gave Marian poison instead of the abortive medicine her letters showed she had received from him before, and that he gave it to her with wilful intent to clear his path of a "light of love." The question for the grand jury to decide is the same that faced a coroner's jury: "Murder or suicide? Which?" The coroner's jury, though holding Orpet because of circumstantial evidence, made no attempt to answer the question in its verdict rendered February 21.

TEXANS WILL OBSERVE MASSACRE OF THE ALAMO

San Antonio, March 6.—Patriotic and historical societies of San Antonio today joined in their customary observance of the eightieth anniversary of the massacre of the Alamo. The massacre was one of the stirring events in the Texas struggle for independence. The Alamo, originally a Spanish mission located near San Antonio, had been converted into a fort by the Texas patriots. Here occurred the historic massacre on March 6, 1836, when a Mexican force of 1,600 or 2,000 men, under Santa Ana, after having besieged and bombarded its garrison of 140 Texans from February 23, stormed the place and took it, after being twice repulsed. Col. David Crockett was killed in the engagement. But six Texans were left alive after the assault, and these were murdered in cold blood in Santa Ana's presence, by his order, after they had surrendered on a promise of protection.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you dyed your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet preparation for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PLUMBERS IN ALLEGED TRUST.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By BREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.
